

Wolfgang Fritz Haug
The Cultural Distinction
 Elements of a philosophy of the cultural

Argument Verlag 2011

Contents – translated by Sam Putinja:

Introduction: A preliminary inspection of the cultural field

Chapter One

Culture theories without a concept of culture

1. A first glance at current conceptions of culture
2. Is “culture” nothing but a “discourse”?
3. The “cultural turn” as delinking from philosophy
4. Culture discourses -- between conceptual misery and forced compromise
5. Transformations of the notion of culture in “postfordism”

Chapter Two

What is cultural about culture

1. Culture as a “process that takes place overtop humanity” (Freud)
2. Culture-category vs. culture-concept
3. Bourdieu’s analyse of cultural distanciation
4. Attempt at a praxis-philosophical new beginning
5. The cultural distinction as a source form of culture
6. Ambivalence of the cultural
7. Valences of the beautiful
8. Excursus: Holbein’s 1532 portrait of the merchant Georg Gisze

Chapter Three

Material culture. An outline of the problem

1. The historical-materialist challenge
2. Culture and cultures
3. The materiality of culture
4. Excavational find and archaeological complement
5. Objective culture
6. Consumption culture of the commodity world

Chapter Four

Standpoint and perspective of a materialist theory of culture

1. “Culture is how humans live and work”
2. The question of the specificity of the cultural
3. Attempt at a solution “from the perspective of life purposes”
4. Instrumentalization of the anti-instrumental?
5. Overdetermination of the debate by a blocked discussion of “real socialism”
5. The question of a “fulfilled life” through work
6. Excursus: The concept of culture in the GDR textbook Historical Materialism 1976

Chapter Five

The cultural distinction

1. Which silence is being talked around?
2. Power and mercy
3. Mass culture
4. Columbus' paradise and its transformation
5. Europe and the "cultural exception"
6. The cultural distinction

Chapter Six

Gramscian politics of the cultural

1. Silence on the 50th anniversary of Gramsci's death
2. No admittance except for translators
3. Società civile and the question of hegemony
4. The struggle for a new culture or mode of living
5. Politics of the cultural
6. Culture, the people-intellectuals axis and the historic bloc
7. Elements of the "intellectual situation of our time"
8. Can Gramsci be translated in the post-communist situation?

Chapter Seven

Alienated agency

1. The contemporary cult of fitness
2. Social-darwinism + the paradigm of syphilis = racial hygiene
3. Everyday self-psychiatrisation
4. Fordist self-normalization and the fascist mobilization of the subject
5. And what of today?

Chapter Eight

Revolt inside consumerism? Fates of the cultural distinction

1. The culture-effect of the commodity aesthetic
2. Contradictions of children's consumerism
3. Youth subcultures and the commodity aesthetic: in hot pursuit
4. "Having fun resisting": The Willis Lads
5. After the fun: The end of revolt in the framework of domination
6. Excursus 1: Prevailing culture, workers' counter-culture and style
7. Excursus 2: Willis' "culture commodities" (2008)
8. Excursus 3: Fiske's "cultural economy", "popular culture" and "fan-culture"

Chapter Nine

Jeans culture, or, The tug-of-war between youth culture, commodity aesthetics and ideology

1. Jeans as the bourgeois "revolutionary" moment in the liberation from Nazism
2. Theoretical intermezzo
  - 2.1 Antagonisms in the realm of "values"
  - 2.2 Ideological versus commodity aesthetic subject-effects
3. Aesthetics of the monopoly commodity: The case of jeans
4. Excursus: Homicide in jeans
5. Compromise formations (swaying back and forth)

6. A Para-ideological force
7. A “frayed” history
8. Epilogue: Wrangler’s We-are-animals campaign

Appendix

On the discussion regarding working class culture (1977)

1. The distinction between a sociological and socialist notion of culture
2. The distinction between “culture” and “ideology”
3. Preliminary theses

The People’s University concept (1980-2002)

1. Introduction
2. Founding manifesto of the first West Berlin People’s University (1980)
3. Learning from history means learning how to live (1981)
4. On the programme of the third West Berlin People’s University (1982)
5. Looking back at the problematic of a people’s university. On the programme of the first Hamburg People’s University (1983)
6. Look right, turn left! On the sixth People’s University (1985)
7. On the dispute regarding the Göttinger People’s University (1985)
8. The new People’s University (1990)
9. Going haywire in Germany. On the 13th Berlin People’s University (1992)
10. That it goes on like this, is the catastrophe. S.O.S civil society. On the 14th Berlin People’s University (1993)
11. Invitation to the 15th Berlin People’s university – directed to the Left (1994)
12. On the opening of the “First Volkxuni” of the Tübingen-Reutlingen social forum (2002)

Addendum

Acknowledgements

Bibliography

Name Index

Subject Index

Further publications by W.F. Haug